

Thanks to Meghan tonight for some very nice courses around the lake and surrounding areas. The rain cleared up nicely and we had over 200 people and quite a few first timers trying out their navigation skills tonight.

It's not often that you go out on your orienteering course to the sound of lions roaring just 100 meters away from you, but that is one of unique things that Western Springs park can provide along with hundreds of quite large and very noisy birds.

The map for next week also has water in the middle, Panmure lagoon is our location and I am told there will be some tricky controls in a small area around the model train line to test your fine navigation skills.

See you there on Thursday 23rd.
